

Accelerating the End of Hunger and Malnutrition

Data, Investment, Partnership, and Accountability

17:45-19:00, Thursday, January 24, 2019

Location: SDG Tent in front of Hotel Derby, Promenade 139, 7260 Davos

WAGENINGEN
UNIVERSITY & RESEARCH

wbcscd

At the current pace, the world will not end hunger and malnutrition by 2030—accelerated progress is needed to achieve this and many other Sustainable Development Goals. Roadblocks to progress include increasing inequality, climate change, and persistent conflicts. Moreover, the latest data confirm that overweight, obesity, and related noncommunicable disease are increasing faster than undernutrition is decreasing; indeed, almost every country is experiencing multiple burdens of malnutrition.

To tackle these challenges and accelerate progress at scale, multi-stakeholder partnerships will be critical—and they must include the private sector. This dialogue will allow for an intimate exchange with key leaders on how the business community can invest, partner, catalyze, and support acceleration to end hunger and malnutrition and achieve multiple SDGs.

Program

Opening and welcome

Shenggen Fan, Director General, International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI)

From knowledge to action: Findings from the Global Nutrition Report

Abigail Perry, Senior Nutrition Advisor, Department for International Development (DFID)

New opportunities to tackle the double burden of malnutrition

Lawrence Haddad, Executive Director, Global Alliance for Improved Nutrition (GAIN)

Aligning the private sector to help achieve development goals

Diane Holdorf, Managing Director for Food, Land, and Water Programs, World Business Council for Sustainable Development (WBCSD)

Repairing food system failures: Policies, investments, and partnerships

Ruerd Ruben, Policy Advisor, Wageningen University and Research (WUR)

Scaling up action where it is needed most

Gerda Verburg, Scaling Up Nutrition (SUN) Movement Coordinator

Open discussion

Please contact Teunis van Rheenen (t.vanrheenen@cgiar.org) to confirm your participation.

